LD RENOMMÉE FAMILY:

A CONTEMPORARY RENAISSANCE TYPE FAMILY

LD Renommée started as a research project on Jan van Krimpen's type designs during Holger Königsdörfer's master studies at the Royal Academy of Art (KABK) in The Hague. By bringing together the Roman and Italic by using the same uppercase characters he is paying respect to Renaissance type master such as Ludovico Vicentino degli Arrighi. LD Renommée is not a facsimile or classical revival, but a contemporary interpretation of van Krimpen's and Arrighi's historical letterforms, revised and prepared for today's typographic requirements.

The LD Renommée type family consists of two styles: Regular (including Small Caps) and Italic. These fonts provide an extended character set to support all European languages. Additional glyphs such as alternate letterforms, various figure sets, currency symbols, arrows and swashes make the LD Renommée family suitable for many different fields of high-quality typography.

TRY LD RENOMMÉE!

TO CONTRAST, OR NOT TO CONTRAST

Differences are what makes life interesting? You get the right share of contrast with this pair. Differentiate with serif and sans serif, with contemporary shapes and historically inspired forms, with modulated and monolinear letters. Too harsh? Not with these two: they share a friendly softness, and appealing affability.

Use either for continuous text, and they will show you their strength through calm and reliable readability. And if you want to see them dance? Go for their italic counterpart and get to know their more unrestrained and expressive sides! Contrast does not need to be a shouting match: go for friendly conversation, a dance of two equals.
